Resumé

I am a young and open minded man of action with many unique ideas. I have started studying Java language in August, 2018. At that time I gave up my old career and I have been focusing on Java 6-8 hours on a daily basis. I acquired a base knowledge in a 4 months online course at the school called Studicore. Now I have been doing other online courses, writing programs and reading every relating books. I have found that Java is not only my best loved hobby but something that worth the time and effort to throw everything else away and change my career, goals and approach. Program developing is the field where I want to become successful. (Please, take into consideration that I do not have work experience in programming yet.)

ABILITIES:

- Excellent ability to organize events and liaise with people. I find the balance with everyone.
- Independent and conscientious working. I never go home until I have finished my work.
- Proactivity. I always find an efficiency way to finish my tasks as soon as possible maintaining high standards.
- Customer orientation: the customer always the first.
- Effective problem-solving ability and crisis-management. I always look for a solution until I find one.

I have always dealt with people all my life and as Human Resources manager (3,5 years experience) and successful salesmen (3 years experience). I worked mainly for financial companies in a multinational environment. It is important to know that the companies that I mentioned in my CV (in Cyprus, Croatia and South-Africa) belong to the same holding. I did not mention in my work experience but I lived in Poland as well where I worked for a company as external advisor. In the meantime I kickstarted my own business in Zagreb and employed 25 salesmen.

But in the past one year I decided to change my career and turn my focus for something which creates real value - this would be the Java. All in all, I really would like to find a company where I can grow in this field. Where the requirements are in harmony with my skills using my experiences and abilities; where I can express myself. I am a hard working person and I really want to create value at a company. I am an energetic person and I am not afraid to meet with new kind of tasks as I can rely on my experiences that I obtained abroad in the past few years. I always stick to my plans and I am motivated and pushed by challenges. I am also interested in getting involved in "Mentor-program" improving my Java skills and see how deep water looks like.
